CONGRESSMEN SEE MUCH

In thanking the pupils for the exercises they had gone through, Senator Piles made an especial reference to the salute, saying that the flag of the mainland was equally the flag of the islands and that in case of necessity he felt certain that in Hawaii the flag would find as true defenders as anywhere.

ST. LOUIS COLLEGE BAND. The well-trained band of the St Louis College played a greeting as the Congressional party wheeled into the college grounds, where a short stop was made. Here an address was made by Congressman Webb of North Carolina, who said that of all the inter-esting things the members of the party had seen in Hawaii, the schools and the school pupils had been the interesting. He paid a graceful compliment to the members of the college band on their music.

HIGH AND ROYAL INSTITUTIONS. The High School and its beautiful grounds was next visited, the pupils rendering a couple of splendid choruse in the assembly hall. The party was met at the entrance by Professor Scott and introduced to the pupils assembled. The response of the party was made through Congressman Needham, who assured the teachers and the scholars that the Federal government was ready to give needed assistance to keep the schools of the Territory up to their present high standards should such assistance ever become necessary.

Something new was called to tention of the visitors at the Royal School, the pupils turning out in re-sponse to a fire alarm, the building being emptied in less than a minute turned in by Superintendent Babbitt The excellence of this fire drill was appreciated by the visitors. A DAINTY LUNCHEON.

The arrival of the party at the Nor-mal School had been timed for noor wealthy friend with whom he was rid- in order to allow the visitors to have a practical test of the efficiency of the instruction given in the culmary department of the school by partaking of a luncheon prepared and served there The party was in excellent shape to appreciate this and did full justice to the good things provided. The menu which had been prepared under the directions of Miss Bell, the efficient teacher of domestic economy, consisted tween himself and Harriman in the beef stew, salad (composed of toma-electric railway interests in southern with a mayonnaise dressing), orange sherbet and cakes. Delicious hot bisof fruit, papaya, cream of pea soup, cuits and corn bread were served with this, the whole forming a meal dis-cussed with a great deal of relish by the visitors, who needed no better proof that the young ladies who served had mastered well this branch of their iomestic science studies.

During the luncheon the pupils sang number of selections, the "Old Plantation" being particularly pleasing. Judge Conner of Iowa voiced the appreciation of the party in a witty and eloquent address, speaking the words quoted at the head of this article and omplimenting the Normal pupils espe-cially on the excellent result of their work as shown in the luncheon the party had just eaten.

Congressman Webb, who had been the star twirler of his college nine, showed that he had lots of speed up his sleeve and could twist em yet, while Congressman Wilson in a desperate sprint up the third base line brought in the first run for his team. MEN AFTER RATS

A campaign similar, in a certain degree, to that of the Territorial Board of Health, is being pursued by Dr. Cofer, the chief officer of the U. S. Marine Hospital Service in this city, against the rats which come into Honolulu on vessels. Recently he ordered an experiment tried on the steamer Alameda when she was in port to see how many of the rodents would be collected in the vessel after she had been care-

The Alameda was fumigated and a a result. She then left for San Franafter, was fumigated again. When the second smoking out work was finished there were only seven dead rats to be found, thus showing that the fumigation work was extremely valuable not only in killing rats, but also in keeping them away afterwards.

That rats are a link in the chain which carries disease from one port to another is certain and the work which the Marine Hospital Service is doing in this regard is said by authorities to George Keola v. Keaupuni, married be extremely valuable in protecting this In every case where fumigation takes Maria Ferreira v.
